I've been learning to paint. A lot of my learning comes from trial and error. A lot of errors, to be honest. When they say "practice makes perfect," they must not have been talking about me because they were probably meaning that you have to practice doing the RIGHT thing until it becomes natural and easy, perfect, as it were (see Quotes and Quips, page 2). My painting doesn't often involve doing the RIGHT thing, however. It usually involves doing the wrong thing, realizing it was wrong, and then having to hope I remember not to do THAT again the next time around. Unfortunately, I don't have a manual or a teacher to tell me what to do. I was thinking about God's manual, the Bible. He wrote it just so we wouldn't have to learn through trial and error. If we read, believe, and do what He says in the manual, we can live generally happy, healthy lives. No, no one's life is free of troubles or worries, but many can certainly be eliminated by following the course that God has set for us. Of course, He does give us freedom of choice... May you choose wisely.

JESUS
Selected Studies on the Life of Christ
 By David Metzler

THE GREAT COMMISSION

“Go therefore and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all things that I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the age” (Matthew 28:19, 20).

Jesus called a meeting upon a mountain in Galilee, and all the believers that the disciples could contact now gathered to hear Him. They made their way to the place of meeting by circuitous routes, coming in from every direction, to avoid exciting the suspicion of the jealous Jews. With wondering hearts they came, talking earnestly together of the news that had reached them concerning Christ. At the time appointed, about five hundred believers were collected in little knots on the mountainside, eager to learn all that could be learned from those who had seen Christ since His resurrection. From group to group the disciples passed, telling all they had seen and heard of Jesus, and reasoning from the Scriptures as He had done with them. Thomas recounted the story of his unbelief, and told how his doubts had been swept away. Suddenly Jesus stood among them.

For many it was their first encounter with Jesus. Jesus reassured His disciples that He had accomplished His mission. He had made the sacrifice for humanity, purchasing salvation by the blood of God’s own Son. The Father had accepted the sacrifice, and the atonement was complete. Jesus now left those disciples and all future disciples with a Great Commission (Matthew 28:18-20). He assigned all disciples to take the message of a crucified and risen Saviour to all. This message was not for the Jews only but was global. His followers were to preach the gospel of the kingdom “in all the world as a witness to all the nations” (Matthew 24:14).

All who take the name “Christian” assume responsibility for spreading the good news of salvation through Jesus Christ. It is a fatal mistake to suppose that the work of saving souls depends alone on the ordained minister. All to whom the heavenly inspiration has come are put in trust with the gospel. All who receive the life of Christ are ordained to work for the salvation of their fellow men. For this work the church was established, and all who take upon themselves its sacred vows are thereby pledged to be coworkers with Christ. Every human being is our mission, and the world is our mission field. ■

LIGHT FOR MY PATH

What to Do When You Feel Angry

Wherefore, my beloved brethren, let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath:

For the wrath of man worketh not the righteousness of God.

James 1:19, 20

Be ye angry, and sin not: let not the sun go down upon your wrath.

Ephesians 4:26

A soft answer turneth away wrath: but grievous words stir up anger.

Proverbs 15:1

He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city.

Proverbs 16:32

Be not hasty in thy spirit to be angry: for anger resteth in the bosom of fools.

Ecclesiastes 7:9

Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord.

Romans 12:19

If thine enemy be hungry, give him bread to eat; and if he be thirsty, give him water to drink:

For thou shalt heap coals of fire upon his head, and the Lord shall reward thee.

LIVING IN THE END TIME

By Mark A. Finley

REVELATION'S
GLORIOUS CLIMAX CHANGE

A Perfect Body

Fortunately, we won't have to explore that new world while hampered by our present feeble, vulnerable bodies. Writing to the church at Philippi, the apostle Paul declared: "And we eagerly await a Savior... who, by the power that enables him to bring everything under his control, will transform our lowly bodies so that they will be like his glorious body" (Philippians 3:20, 21).

Have you ever awakened on a spring morning with the birds singing outside and felt for a few moments the full vigor of health? In heaven you'll have a body that never tires — that is never sick. There will be no physical limitations to your adventures.

The prophet Isaiah described handicapped bodies wonderfully recreated: "Then will the eyes of the blind be opened and the ears of the deaf unstopped. Then will the lame leap like a deer, and the mute tongue shout for joy" (Isaiah 35:5). Think of the incredible excitement of people who have been hampered for a lifetime, now exercising their limbs and senses to the full.

At Christ's second coming those who have placed their faith in Jesus will be changed "in the twinkling of an eye." Our mortal bodies will become glorious, immortal bodies. To feel good all the time, to experience perfect health, to continually look radiant with the sparkle of youth — these are the rewards of the redeemed.

An Active Life

Heaven will not be a place of idleness. That familiar picture of

BUT WE SHALL ALL BE CHANGED
IN A MOMENT
IN THE TWINKLING OF AN EYE
AT THE LAST TRUMPET

white-robed saints playing harps on a cloud is a caricature. We'll have plenty to do, with our new bodies, in that new world. Just how will we keep busy through the millennia without end? The prophet Isaiah gives us one clue: "They will build houses and dwell in them; they will plant vineyards and eat their fruit... For as the days of a tree so will be the days of my people; my chosen ones will long enjoy the works of their hands" (Isaiah 65:21, 22).

Why does God allow us to build our own homes? Because He recognizes we all have our individual tastes and desires; we all express ourselves in different ways. So we'll each have the privilege of designing and creating our own dream home. There will be no limitations because of finances or a lack of energy or a shortage of materials. We'll have all the resources we need.

If you've ever planted a garden, you know the delight of picking fresh tomatoes, cucumbers, and sweet corn. You know the joy of eating a meal fresh from the garden — there's nothing quite like it. In heaven, we'll have such a rich variety of fruits and vegetables to grow, we'll hardly know where to start. The new earth will be exceedingly fruitful.

And I'm sure we'll have no end of new and interesting places to explore. How would you like to travel from planet to planet, from galaxy to galaxy, discovering the wonders of civilizations that have never been hampered by sin? We'll marvel at their achievements in every field of culture.

Activity is a law of life. And our Creator is the author of life. He has thrilling plans for us, starting that very first day when we begin using our perfect bodies and brilliant minds.

Wonderful Relationships

But beyond interesting places, the great joy of heaven will be interesting people. Heaven is about people. Even here on earth we can sense how precious close relationships can be. There will be nothing to hold people apart in the new world. The joy of fellowship, the unity of Christian love, the warmth of true friendship — all these will only deepen through the ages. Best of all, we won't ever have to say goodbye.

And remember, everyone worth knowing will be there. As Jesus said, "Many will come from the east and the west, and will take their places at the feast with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven" (Matthew 8:11). One of the greatest rewards of heaven will be getting to know the great men of all ages. How would you like to ask Moses what it was like to pass through the Red Sea? Would you enjoy talking with Joseph about his years in prison and his steadfast faith? Daniel will have quite a story to tell about the lions' den, and Peter, I'm sure, will be eager to talk about what it was like to walk on the water with Jesus.

Face to Face with Jesus

But of all the fascinating characters there, One stands head and shoulders above the rest. He has nail prints still in His hands and the spear wound still in His side. Those scars speak eloquently of His love. And I can imagine Him saying, "Let's have a talk — why don't we take a walk together."

Yes, Jesus will take each one of us on a little walk by the river of life. And in that face-to-face meeting we'll experience His love as we never have before. We'll know the beauty and power of His sacrifice as we never have before.

The Bible closes with a glorious appeal. It's God's invitation into the Holy City: "The Spirit and the bride say, 'Come!' And let him who hears say, 'Come!' Whoever is thirsty, let him come and whoever wishes, let him take the free gift of the water of life" (Revelation 22:17).

Have you heard the Spirit making that call? A place in the Holy City is waiting for you. You can be accepted, forgiven, and transformed. In the light of the beauty of that holy city, the wonders of our new bodies, the joy of eternal friendships, and the glory of the face of Christ — how can anyone resist heaven's invitation to come? Come in dedication, come in submission, come in the settled conviction that your decision is right. Come and give Jesus your life, inviting Him to make you ready for the new earth. ■

THE STORY OF REDEMPTION
by E. G. White

The Creation

The Father and the Son engaged in the mighty wondrous work they had contemplated — of creating the world. The earth came forth from the hand of the Creator exceedingly beautiful. There were mountains and hills and plains; and interspersed among them were rivers and bodies of water. The earth was not one extensive plain, but the monotony of the scenery was broken by hills and mountains, not high and ragged as they now are, but regular and beautiful in shape. The bare, high rocks were never seen upon them, but lay beneath the surface, answering as bones to the earth. The waters were regularly dispersed. The hills, mountains, and very beautiful plains were adorned with plants and flowers and tall, majestic trees of every description, which were many times larger and much more beautiful than trees now are. The air was pure and healthful, and the earth seemed like a noble palace. Angels beheld and rejoiced at the wonderful and beautiful works of God.

After the earth was created, and the beasts upon it, the Father and Son carried out their purpose, which was designed before the fall of Satan, to make man in their own image. They had wrought together in the creation of the earth and every living thing upon it. And now God said to His Son, "Let us make man in our image." As Adam came forth from the hand of his Creator he was of noble height and of beautiful symmetry. He was more than twice as tall as men now living upon the earth, and was well proportioned. His features were perfect and beautiful. His complexion was neither white nor sallow, but ruddy, glowing with the rich tint of health. Eve was not quite as tall as Adam. Her head reached a little above his shoulders. She, too, was noble, perfect in symmetry, and very beautiful.

This sinless pair wore no artificial garments. They were clothed with a covering of light and glory, such as the angels wear. While they lived in obedience to God, this circle of light enshrouded them. Although everything God had made was in the perfection of beauty, and there seemed nothing wanting upon the earth that God had created to make Adam and Eve happy, yet He manifested His great love to them by planting a garden especially for them. A portion of their time was to be occupied in the healthy employment of dressing the garden, and a portion in receiving the visits of angels, listening to their instruction, and in happy meditation. Their labor was not wearisome but pleasant and invigorating. This beautiful garden was to be their home.

In this garden the Lord placed trees of every variety for usefulness and beauty. There were trees laden with luxuriant fruit, of rich fragrance, beautiful to the eye, and pleasant to the taste, designed of God to be food for the holy pair. There were the lovely vines that grew upright, laden with their burden of fruit, unlike anything man has seen since the fall. The fruit was very large and of different colors; some nearly black, some purple, red, pink, and light green. This beautiful and luxuriant growth of fruit upon the branches of the vine was called grapes. They did not trail upon the ground, although not supported by trellises, but the weight of the fruit bowed them down. It was the happy labor of Adam and Eve to form beautiful bowers from the branches of the vine and train them, forming dwellings of nature's beautiful, living trees and foliage, laden with fragrant fruit.

The earth was clothed with beautiful verdure, while myriads of fragrant flowers of every variety and hue sprang up in rich profusion around them. Everything was tastefully and gloriously arranged. In the midst of the garden stood the tree of life, the glory of which surpassed all other trees. Its fruit looked like apples of gold and silver, and it was to perpetuate immortality. The leaves contained healing properties.

Adam and Eve in Eden

Very happy were the holy pair in Eden. Unlimited control was given them over every living thing. The lion and lamb sported peacefully and harmlessly around them, or slumbered at their feet. Birds of every variety of color and plumage flitted among the trees and flowers and about Adam and Eve, while their mellow-toned music echoed among the trees in sweet accord to the praises of their Creator.

Adam and Eve were charmed with the beauties of their Eden home. They were delighted with the little songsters around them, wearing their bright yet graceful plumage, and warbling forth their happy, cheerful music. The holy pair united with them and raised their voices in harmonious songs of love, praise and adoration to the Father and His dear Son for the tokens of love that surrounded them. They recognized the order and harmony of creation, which spoke of wisdom and knowledge that were infinite. Some new beauty and additional glory of the Eden home they were continually discovering, which filled their hearts with deeper love and brought from their lips expressions of gratitude and reverence to their Creator.

CONSEQUENCES OF REBELLION

In the midst of the garden, near the tree of life, stood the tree of knowledge of good and evil. This tree was especially designed of God to be the pledge of their obedience, faith, and love to Him. Of this tree the Lord commanded our first parents not to eat, neither to touch it, lest they die. He told them that they might freely eat of all the trees in the garden except one, but if they ate of that tree they should surely die.

When Adam and Eve were placed in the beautiful garden they had everything for their happiness that they could desire. But God chose, in His all-wise arrangements, to test their loyalty before they could be rendered eternally secure. They were to have His favor, and He was to converse with them and they with Him. Yet He did not place evil out of their reach. Satan was permitted to tempt them. If they endured the trial they were to be in perpetual favor with God and the heavenly angels.

Satan stood in amazement at his new condition. His happiness was gone. He looked upon the angels who, with him, were once so happy, but who had been expelled from heaven with him. Before their fall not a shade of discontent had marred their perfect bliss. Now all seemed changed. Countenances that had reflected the image of their Maker were gloomy and despairing. Strife, discord, and bitter recrimination were among them. Previous to their rebellion these things had been unknown in heaven. Satan now beheld the terrible results of his rebellion. He shuddered and feared to face the future and to contemplate the end of these things.

The hour for joyful, happy songs of praise to God and His dear Son had come. Satan had led the heavenly choir. He had raised the first note; then all the angelic host had united with him, and glorious strains of music had resounded through heaven in honor of God and His dear Son. But now, instead of the strains of sweetest music, discord and angry words fall upon the ear of the great rebel leader. Where is he? Is it not all a horrible dream? Is he shut out of heaven? Are the gates of heaven never more to open to admit him? The hour of worship draws nigh, when bright and holy angels bow before the Father. No more will he unite in heavenly song. No more will he bow in reverence and holy awe before the presence of the eternal God.

Could he be again as he was when he was pure, true, and loyal, gladly would he yield up the claims of his authority. But he was lost beyond redemption, for his presumptuous rebellion! And this was not all; he had led others to rebellion and to the same lost condition with himself — angels, who had never thought to question the will of Heaven or refuse obedience to the law of God till he had put it into their minds, presenting before them that they might enjoy a greater good, a higher and more glorious liberty. This had been the sophistry whereby he had received them. A responsibility now rests upon him from which he would fain be released.

These spirits had become turbulent with disappointed hopes. Instead of greater good, they were experiencing the sad results of disobedience and disregard of law. Never more would these unhappy beings be swayed by the mild rule of Jesus Christ. Never more would their spirits be stirred by the deep, earnest love, peace, and joy that His presence had ever inspired in them, to be returned to Him in cheerful obedience and reverential honor.

Satan Seeks Reinstatement

Satan trembled as he viewed his work. He was alone in meditation upon the past, the present, and his future plans. His mighty frame shook as with a tempest. An angel from heaven was passing. He called him and entreated an interview with Christ. This was granted him. He then related to the Son of God that he repented of his rebellion and wished again the favor of God. He was willing to take the place God had previously assigned him, and be under His wise command. Christ wept at Satan's woe but told him, as the mind of God, that he could never be received into heaven. Heaven must not be placed in jeopardy. All heaven would be marred should he be received back, for sin and rebellion originated within him. The seeds of rebellion were still within him. He had, in his rebellion, no occasion for his course, and he had hopelessly ruined not only himself but the host of angels also, who would then have been happy in heaven had he remained steadfast. The law of God could condemn but could not pardon.

He repented not of his rebellion because he saw the goodness of God that he had abused. It was not possible that his love for God had so increased since his fall that it would lead to cheerful submission and happy obedience to His law that he had despised. The wretchedness he realized in losing the sweet light of heaven, and the sense of guilt that forced itself upon him, and the disappointment he experienced himself in not finding his expectation realized, were the cause of his grief. To be commander out of heaven was vastly different from being thus honored in heaven. The loss he had sustained of all the privileges of heaven seemed too much to be borne. He wished to regain these.

This great change of position had not increased his love for God, nor for His wise and just law. When Satan became fully convinced that there was no possibility of his being reinstated in the favor of God, he manifested his malice with increased hatred and fiery vehemence.

God knew that such determined rebellion would not remain inactive. Satan would invent means to annoy the heavenly angels and show contempt for His authority. As he could not gain admission within the gates of heaven, he would wait just at the entrance, to taunt the angels and seek contention with them as they went in and out. He would seek to destroy the happiness of Adam and Eve. He would endeavor to incite them to rebellion, knowing that this would cause grief in heaven.

WORDS of WISDOM

Complete Serenity

Many of us have heard the first part of what's called "The Serenity Prayer," attributed to theologian Reinhold Niebuhr. But we would do well to learn the rest of it as well:

"God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, courage to change the things I can, and the wisdom to know the difference, living one day at a time; enjoying one moment at a time; taking this world as it is and not as I would have it; trusting that you will make all things right if I surrender to your will; so that I may be reasonably happy in this life and supremely happy with You forever in the next. Amen."

Facing Life's Giants

Underdogs play key roles in the Bible: Moses takes on Pharaoh's army, Daniel defies a king and David squares off against an actual giant. Being an underdog didn't faze David, who knew the source of his strength: "For the battle is the Lord's," he says in I Samuel 17:47. What assurance as we battle life's "giants"!

In Goliath Must Fall, Louie Giglio writes, "Our giants keep taunting us, so we need to hold God at His word: that He is already victorious." Instead of "staring at our giant," we must "lock eyes with Jesus" and remember that "life is short and God is big." With bold hearts, adds Giglio, we can worship with "holy urgency" while giants fall.

Our Stain Remover

From sanitizers and soaps to solutions and sprays, many products promise to eliminate germs and grime. Unfortunately, they often fall short.

What if we were that concerned about ridding our lives and hearts of sin? What if we spent as much time confessing and repenting as scrubbing and laundering? The good news is that with one "application" (the cross), Jesus makes us "whiter than snow" (Psalm 51:7). Praise be to our unblemished Lamb, the perfect stain remover!

Love That Welcomes All

When Jesus first invited his followers, “Take and eat; this is my body. Take and drink; this is my blood,” he didn’t exclude Judas, who would betray him, or Peter, who would deny him, or any of the others, who would abandon him as he was arrested and executed.

Indeed, no matter what’s wrong with us — what sins we’ve committed, what flaws we try to hide — Jesus welcomes us to the communion table. And he’ll welcome us to the great heavenly banquet at the end of time. For the great love of God declares, “You’re all welcome at my table.”

—Heidi Hyland Mann

Mary’s Yes Calls Us to Love

In Wholehearted Faith, Rachel Held Evans writes: “I am a Christian not because of anything I’ve done but because a teenage girl living in occupied Palestine at one of the most dangerous moments in history said yes — yes to God, yes to a wholehearted call she could not possibly understand ... yes to a vision for herself and her little boy of a mission that would bring down rulers and lift up the humble, that would turn away the rich and fill the hungry with good things, that would scatter the proud and gather the lowly, yes to a life that came with no guarantee of her safety or her son’s. ... And through Mary’s example, God invites us to take the risk of love.”

A Dose of Humor

During his four decades in ministry, Thom Rainer has collected these funny gems heard by real-life pastors:

- “Is it okay to lie if I ask for forgiveness in advance?”
 - (During the offertory) “Pastor, do you have change for a twenty?”
 - (During an ordination council) “What’s your view on Christian missions in space?”
 - “My husband’s ashes are in two different places. Will Jesus be able to find him?”
 - Mother: “Pastor, will you pray for my son? He’s wild and out of control.”
- Pastor: “Sure, what’s his name?” Mother: “Maverick.”

YOUR BIBLE QUESTIONS . . . ANSWERED

Who is Michael the Archangel? (Conclusion)

“And war broke out in heaven: Michael and his angels fought with the dragon; and the dragon and his angels fought” (Revelation 12:7).

If we isolate and examine the word “archangel,” we see another interesting match. The only other passage in the Bible that uses the word “archangel” is I Thessalonians 4:16. Note its context: “The Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first.” It is the voice of the archangel that raises the dead in Christ, and the Lord Himself who shouts it. This indicates that they are one and the same. Jesus is the one who shouts with the voice of the archangel, or “greatest messenger,” to raise the dead!

Obviously, angels don’t have the power to resurrect the dead. Only God has the power to give life (see John 5:26).

In Jude, we see the archangel contending with the devil for the body of Moses, who was resurrected and taken to heaven; later, he appeared on the mount of transfiguration to encourage Christ (Mark 9). In I Thessalonians, the apostle Paul describes the resurrection as happening in response to the voice of the archangel. Again, we see the parallel between these two verses; both describe the archangel in the act of resurrecting.

In conclusion, we see this majestic and mysterious being — sometimes called Michael, sometimes the angel of the Lord, sometimes the commander of the Lord’s army — veiling His divinity and appearing in the form of an angel. Yet this same enigmatic being has the power, authority, and attributes that belong only to God. He evicts the devil from heaven; He resurrects the dead; He intercedes for the saints; He judges and then stands, launching the time of trouble. He redeems the saints and receives their worship.

Now you might know who Michael is, but the devil knows too, and it won’t save him. The big question is: Do you know Him as Jesus, your Lord and Savior? ■

YOUR TURN

Morning Star

Oh, twinkling little morning star,
 How bright you shine for me...
 Of all the stars that heaven holds,
 It's you that first I see....
 Your light it shines my path each day
 And lights each step I take....
 And signifies your love for me
 You're there each time I wake...
 Each time I see you sparkle,
 I know you're in my heart...
 And know by simply faith itself,
 Your love will never part
 Oh, Father God, I thank You
 For the love You help me find...
 A reminder of just who You are
 Each time I see You shine....
 You're all I want within my heart
 Your love shines near and far...
 A reminder of this gift of love
 In the twinkling of a star...
